Lieber verehrter Meister [Heinrich Schenker]!¹

Besten Dank für Ihren lieben Brief,² dessen Empfang ich Ihnen sogleich nach unseren gestern Sonntag abends erfolgten glücklichen Ankunft bestätige. Ausführliches lasse ich sofort mit den Erlagscheinen brieflich folgen. Wir hatten nach Galtür hatten wir [sic] noch viele Genüsse! Brot bestelle ich morgen.³ Das Geld ist mir bereits angewiesen⁴ – ich war nicht zu Hause als es kam und hole es morgen am Postamt.

Ihnen und der lieben Frau Lie-Lie [Jeanette Schenker] alles Herzliche und Innige von uns beiden.

Ihr getreuer
[signed:] Hans [Hans Weisse]

Dear revered Master [Heinrich Schenker],¹

Many thanks for your kind letter,² which I received after our safe arrival yesterday (Sunday) evening. More details will follow from me immediately with the postal payment forms. After our stay in Galtür we had many more pleasurable moments! I shall order bread tomorrow.³ The money has just arrived;⁴ I was not at home when it came, and I shall collect it tomorrow from the Post Office.

To you and your dear wife Lie-Lie [Jeanette Schenker], all cordial and intimate greetings from the two of us.

Your faithful
[signed:] Hans [Hans Weisse]

Footnotes

² Writing of this letter, which is not known to survive, is recorded in Schenker's diary at OJ 3/3, p. 2442, July 11, 1922: "An Weisse (Br.): werde vier Erlagscheine senden u. per Post 50000 Kronen." ("To Weisse (letter): will send four postal payment forms, and by post 50,000 Kronen.")

³ Probably a special bread for diabetics; in another letter, Weisse mentions having arranged for "Luftbrod" to be sent to Galtür.

⁴ Sending of the money is recorded in Schenker's diary at OJ 3/3, July 13, 1922: "An Weisse 50000 Kronen mittels Postanweisung zur Verrechnung." ("To Weisse, 50,000 Kronen by postal money order in settlement of account.")
